FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE AND CREDIT

Program: Advance Payments for Crops

Description: The Advance Payments for Crops program provides eligible producer groups with guaranteed interest-free loans so that advance payments can be made to their members. It improves the marketing potential for specified crops and increases returns to producers by encouraging them to store their crop until favourable sales opportunities appear later in the year. The program applies for all storable field crops, except wheat, oats and barley grown in the Canadian Wheat Board designated area. Honey is also eligible.

Program: Agricultural Products Board

Description: The board provides producers with marketing support when they are receiving low prices because their agricultural commodities are in over-abundant supply.

The board is empowered to buy, store or process surplus commodities and to sell or export them when market prices have improved. This increases the financial return to the producers when they are ready to sell their commodities, even though a market may not exist at that time.

Program: Agricultural Stabilization

Description: The Agricultural Stabilization Board is primarily responsible for stabilizing the prices of specific agricultural commodities in order to assist the agricultural industry in realizing fair returns for its labour and investment. Further, it maintains a fair relationship between prices received by farmers and the cost of goods and services that they buy.

Named commodities are cattle, hogs, lambs and wool; industrial milk and cream; corn and soybeans; and oats, barley, spring wheat and winter wheat produced outside the area designated in the Canadian Wheat Board Act.

Program: Canola Utilization Assistance Program (CUAP)

Description: CUAP was introduced in 1968 as the Rapeseed Utilization Assistance Program (RUAP), a research and development effort to promote improvements in the manufacture of canola products and thereby to enlarge markets for the expanding acreages of canola. The program is funded through an annual grant from Agriculture Canada and is administered by the Canola Council of Canada.

Program: Crop Insurance

Description: Crop Insurance maintains cash flow to farmers when crop yields are reduced by uncontrollable natural hazards. Under the Crop Insurance Act of 1959, Agriculture Canada contributes financially to federally approved, provincially administered crop insurance plans. Depending on the terms of the agreements signed with individual provinces, the federal government may contribute 25% of the premium and 50% of the provincial administrative costs, or it may contribute 50% of the premium if the province pays all administrative costs. Farmers must also pay a share of the premium and they must decide individually whether to cover their crops.
